

WELCOME TO THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATIONS AND MANAGEMENT.

The objective of the department of Educational Foundations and Management is to provide professional development and understanding in the foundational disciplines such as Philosophy of Education, Educational Psychology, Educational Research, School and Society, and Educational Administration, for the effective functioning of teachers and other educators.

Marketability

Our courses in the educational Foundations and Management are done by all students in the B. Ed (prim & Sec) including P. G. C. E. programmes. They are core courses which students should complete successfully in order to graduate. Currently, students do not major in Educational Foundations and Management in the undergraduate programme but our majors are widely sought after at Masters level where we have five specialisations such as Guidance and Counselling, Inclusive education, Educational Administration, Educational psychology, and sociology in Education.

Marketability

The department of Educational Foundations and Management is also home to Educational Research where there are highly qualified and skilled lecturers to help you navigate the difficult terrain of research. Many of our courses in the department will help you to develop 21st century skills which are sought after by many employers such as independent thinking, social skills, working independently with minimum supervision, etc.

Courses in the department require dedicated and hard working students because of the level of academic rigor and scholarship. In particular, students may be required to read extensively beyond their modules, as well as demonstrate independent mindedness, and ability to communicate ideas clearly through writing assignments, tests, and oral presentations. We believe these are the hallmarks of a good student who is likely to succeed in this highly competitive world environment.

We therefore look forward to a great semester filled with many intellectual insights and engagements with you online, especially, through the Moodle Learning Management System or interface. We also hope you will learn a lot from us as much as we will learn a lot from you as George Iles once remarked, “who ever ceases to be a student has never been a student”. Thank you
